Summary

Kintavar has put out two significant news releases so far this month and the stock is currently halted.

This past week management decided to monetize their gold assets in Quebec by selling their Anik gold property to Tomagold. This asset will be combined with Tomagold's Monster Lake and surrounding properties to form a new publicly traded company called Monster Exploration Inc. The deal is valued at $5 million with Kintavar owning 14% of the newly formed company.

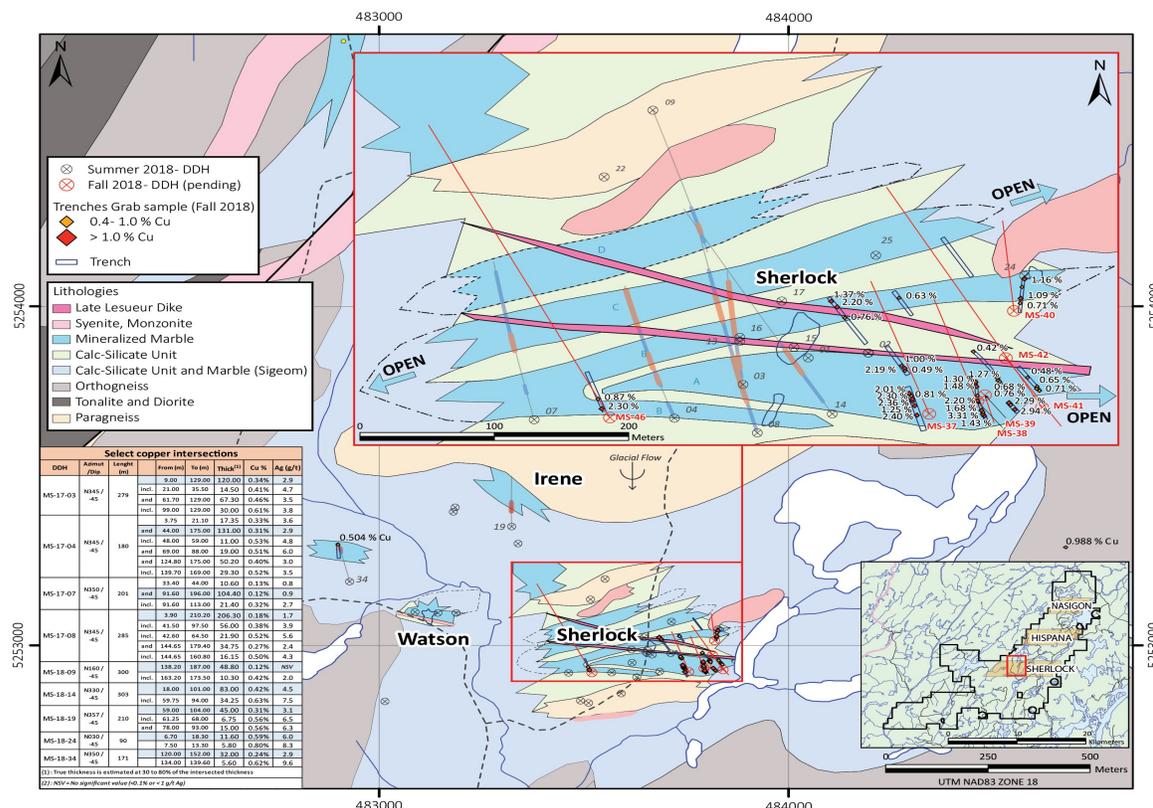

Kintavar's Anik gold project is adjacent to the Iamgold-Vanstar Nelligan gold project that has been delivering exceptional assays – including a recently announced hole assaying 82 meters of over 3 g/t gold.

On the copper front at Mitchi, a few weeks ago Kintavar announced some assays relating to new trenching that was done during November and December at the Sherlock and Conan areas and the subsequent visuals relating to the drilling underneath these trenches.

As detailed in the press release:

In the Sherlock area, eight (8) trenches intersected over tens of meters of the bornite, chalcocite (nearly 80% copper by weight) and chalcopyrite mineralization within marble and calc-silicate horizons, while six (6) of the trenches returned grades of 1% Cu and higher in multiple samples. The extension of the surface mineralization and the fertile lithological units by over 200 meters and the additional 7 drill holes, as can be seen in Figure 1 below, are confirming the interpretation of many tightly folded parallel mineralized marble horizons. These horizons remain open to the East and to the West and will be investigated by further drilling and trenching in 2019. Drilling assays are expected in Q1.

In the Conan area, 3 km to the North of Sherlock, two (2) new trenches confirmed the extent of the mineralization over 150 meters within marble horizons with the same characteristics as the Sherlock area.

Assays should be available from the trenching and drilling in the coming weeks. The fact that tightly folded parallel mineralized marble horizons were intercepted in the drill holes bodes well for improved widths versus recent results from Nasigon.

The share price is up 100% from the November/December lows and from the date I issued a report on tax loss selling opportunities for Kintavar:

2019 should be an exciting year for Kintavar as they continue to expand this unique stratiform copper deposit that has piqued the interest of some of the major copper players.
