Summary

Strikepoint Gold has wrapped up an extremely successful 2019 field program at their Willoughby project near Stewart, BC in Canada's Golden Triangle. Last week, the company received final assays from the six remaining holes, three from the North zone and three from the Wilby zone. Key assays include hole number 97 which hit 4 different gold zones highlighted by an intersection of 1.33 meters of 72 g/t gold and 55t g/t silver 91 meters down the hole. Other intersections in the same hole include 4 meters of 5 g/t gold and 35 g/t silver, 1 meter of 22 g/t gold and 347 g/t silver and 5 meters of 5 g/t gold and 28 g/t silver all within 100 meters of surface. The company will get ready for an exciting 2020 field season at Willoughby and their nearby Porter project while at the same time unlocking value from their nearly 20 non-core gold and silver projects either through JV or divestment. Tax loss season provides patient investors an opportunity to enter a position at attractive prices.

2019 Field Program

The company completed 12 drill holes during the field program which were detailed in three separate press releases:

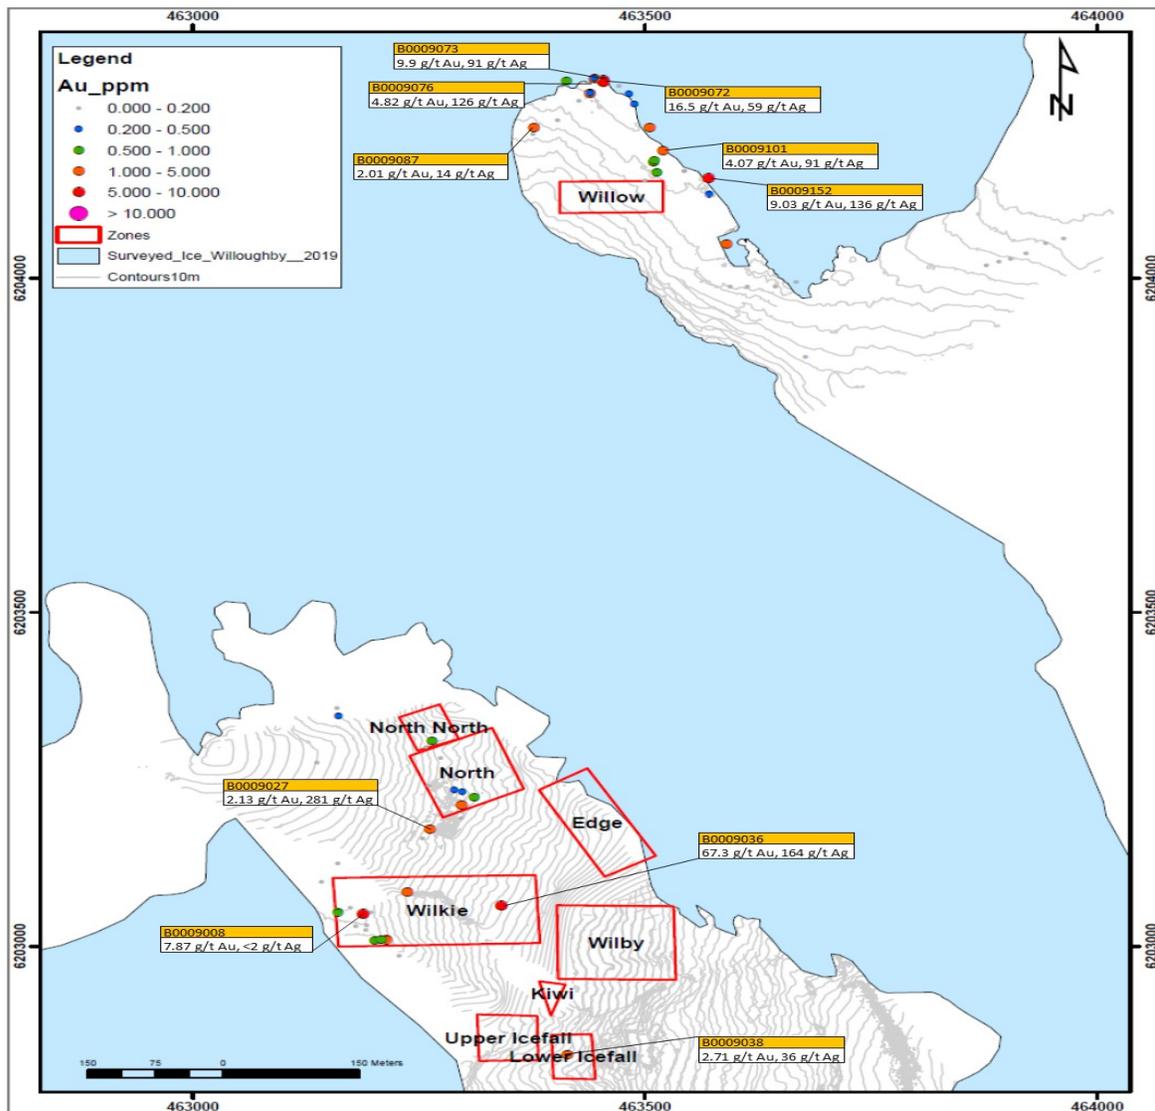

Last week (<https://strikepointgold.com/strikepoint-intersects-72-g-t-gold-and-55-g-t-silver-over-1-33-meters-at-willoughby/> )

In October (<https://strikepointgold.com/strikepoint-intersects-102-g-t-gold-and-356-g-t-silver-over-1-0-meters-from-a-100-meter-step-out-from-the-north-zone-willoughby-property/> )

In September (<https://strikepointgold.com/strikepoint-receives-assays-from-initial-two-holes-at-willoughby-including-3-87-g-t-au-over-11-7-meters-at-wilby-zone/> )

In addition to the assays from the 2019 drill program, the company was successful in finding additional gold targets due to melting ice on the project. StrikePoint CEO, Shawn Khunkhun, stated “We are extremely encouraged by the high-grade nature of samples received from newly exposed areas that are right on the margins of melting ice, demonstrating the vast potential of the Willoughby property”. New high grade samples are shown below:

These new areas will be followed up on during the 2020 field season.

Company management has been very active on the marketing front telling the exciting Strikepoint story to investors around the globe. Below are links to several recent presentations:

Tax Loss Selling Buying Opportunity

Not unlike many junior exploration companies who have had successful 2019 exploration campaigns, Strikepoint's share price has fallen to 5 year lows in this 8 year bear market for junior exploration companies. Cycles always turn and when they do exceptional gains can be made with those companies who have strong management teams to work exceptionally strong projects.
